

Árbol side table designed by Jaime Hayon, ideal for private spaces and contract projects. It makes reference to the image of a tree and is composed of a central structure on which to attach three 'branches' with round tops at different heights. Produced by Ceccotti Collezioni in solid American walnut or ash wood with different hues, available in many chromatic variants including shellac. An expression of the concept of simplicity, the Balestro 24 sofa designed by Piero Lissoni for Living Divani has a long platform in canaletto walnut, a metal support structure and feet coated in a burnished hue. At the sides there are two tables, while the backs are at the center; the seat cushions are in variable-density polyurethane foam, covered with completely removable fabric or leather using zippers and velcro.
