BEDTIME

Comfort and diversion for early nights

ARTWORK: LÉA BIGOT INTERIORS: OLLY MASON WRITER: LÉA TEUSCHER

'Gaudi' bed, price on request, by Matteo Nunziati, for Flou. 'Wall Street' bedding, from €140, by Magniberg. 'Islands Low' tables, from €1,716 each, by Stephen Burks, for Living Divani. 'T' lamps, £299 each, by Regular Company, for Frama. LG Signature OLED TV RX, $87,000, by LG Signature. Xbox Series X, £449, by Microsoft. Silver carafe, limited-edition of eight pieces, €9,600, by Aldo Bakker, for Wiener Silber Manufactur. 'Lapis' tumbler, £80 for six, by Ghulam Sekhi, for Ishkar. For stockists, see page 121

A tribute to the Spanish architect, the 'Gaudi' bed features a sinuous, steel-supported wooden frame finished in dark coffee or black-stained oak. 'It is based on the power of the curved lines of Antoni Gaudí, constantly varied in terms of direction,' says designer Matteo Nunziati of his piece for Italian manufacturer Flou. An enveloping, padded headboard, available in fabric, leather or eco-leather, promises comfortable lie-ins and lounging. Complementing the bed's curved aesthetic are Stephen Burks' lacquered bedside tables for Living Divani, with pirouetting slats that open and close their volumes, and a pair of tubular 'T' lamps, by Regular Company for Frama, that tilt for reading or mood lighting. Close at hand for bedside refreshments is Aldo Bakker's beautifully formed silver pitcher for Wiener Silber Manufactur, and Ghulam Sekhi's hand-blown 'Lapis' tumbler for Ishkar. Add the latest rollable screen technology from LG Signature, and the neat black volume of the Xbox Series X, its surface etched for low-gloss discretion, and we can see no point in venturing out from beneath our jacquard cotton poplin 'Wall Street' bedding by Magniberg. ★
