

'ARK' ARMCHAIR

by David Lopez Quincoces, for Living Divani

Spanish designer David Lopez Quincoces has been collaborating with Living Divani since 2013 and, over the years, he has helped define the Italian brand's strong aesthetic, creating a series of designs that contribute to the graphic refinement that pervades its catalogues. His latest piece is the 'Ark', a sculptural design that combines aesthetic innovation with the company's storied furniture tradition. "The idea was to create an armchair-object, almost like a graphic sign, where the curved line meets the straight line defining a profile, a seat and a backrest," says the designer. The chair's contemporary feel is softened by the wooden surfaces, offering an expressive interpretation to the composition of lines in contrast with the minimalist metal legs. It's a piece of furniture defined by its silhouette that will sit well with Living Divani's 'Antithetic Aesthetic' theme for this year's Salone del Mobile and Fuorisalone. livingdivani.it
